

Stylish Design in Latin America

Estudio Zermak

Liaoning Science and Technology Publishing House / China

2009

The Zermak studio surges as an amplification of the photographer's home. The project is inserted in a residencial zone in front of some terrains with steeps and one small forest area. The proposal articulates the home and the project with a pathway that generates in the wood entrance and finishes with a deck and reunion hall. Advancing towards this axis, one can enter to the left to the original residence and to the right to the studio, entrance that merges towards the stairways. The space requires being somber in benefit of the activities of the place. Geometrically the work is proportionate in the golden spot section, both in floor as in facade. The studio surges as a modest scale project with an exhaustive control for architecture and constructive detail.

Zemak Photography Studio

Location: La Unión, Cartago

Completed: 2006

Designer: Jda arquitectura

Photographer: Oscar Abenda

The Zemak studio surges as an amplification of the photographer's home. The project is inserted in a residential zone in front of some terrains with steep slopes and one small forest area.

The proposal articulates the home and the project with a pathway that generates in the wood entrance and finishes with a deck and reunion hall. Advancing towards this axis, one can enter to the left to the original residence and to the right to the studio, entrance that merges towards the stairways. The space requires being somber in benefit of the activities of the place.

Geometrically the work is proportionate in the golden section, both in floor as in facade. The studio surges as a modest scale project with an exhaustive control for architecture and constructive detail.

